

How It All Started

John Beal, a Vietnam veteran, experienced post-traumatic stress disorder upon returning home from combat and found himself battling heart disease in his late twenties. Given a short-term prognosis of only a few months to live, Beal turned to the environment and began work on Hamm Creek, a tributary to the Duwamish River in Seattle, WA. Restoring Hamm Creek transformed into a metaphor for Beal's life after war. As he worked to clean up his local waterways, he also began to heal his heart, mind, and soul. The VCC is part of the Counseling and Wellness Program of the Washington State Department of Veterans Affairs and was formed by WA State legislation in 2005 largely through the efforts and influence of John Beal.

Have you served in the Uniformed Services of the U.S. and are you interested in sustainable agriculture or the conservation and restoration of the lands, waters, and natural habitats in WA State?

For more information, contact:

Kim Pham
VCC Program Manager
kim@dva.wa.gov
(360) 870-0729

"Serving Those Who Served"

www.dva.wa.gov/benefits/internships
Instagram.com/veteransconservationcorps
Facebook.com/veteransconservationcorps

PO Box 41155
Olympia, WA 98504-1155

Veterans

Conservation Corps Internship

A Country Worth Defending
Is Worth Preserving

Mission: Serve those who served by providing veterans with self-directed connections to the lands, waters, and communities in WA State.

Desired Outcomes:

- Veterans take the initiative to create a self-directed internship experience
- Given the opportunity to do meaningful work in conserving and restoring natural ecosystems and seeing the results of their efforts, veterans acknowledge and understand their own self-efficacy, resiliency, and ability to overcome their own personal challenges
- Veterans establish and maintain healthy reciprocal relationships with nature and their community
- Veterans realize a positive shift in their mental, emotional, and physical well-being
- Veterans acquire skills and experiences that may help them in finding meaningful employment

“In Healing
Nature, You
Heal Yourself.”
-John Beal

The Internship

- Help protect and restore natural habitats or engage in sustainable agriculture practices with one of our community partner organizations in WA State
- Obtain on-the-job training and specific skill sets toward employment in environmental conservation and stewardship or sustainable agriculture
- Participate in professional and personal development workshops
- Connect with your community and other veterans
- Stipend provided to assist with living costs
- Direct access to comprehensive WDVA veteran resources

Opportunities

- Restoration Field Technician
- Trail Stewardship/Maintenance
- NOAA Fisheries Technician
- Farm Intern
- Farmers’ Market Intern
- Storm Water Resource Projects crew
- Garden Builder
- ...more to come!

Some of Our Current Partners

Puget Sound Restoration Fund
National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration
Snohomish Conservation District
Thurston Conservation District
Spokane Conservation District
Vashon-Maury Island Land Trust
Growing Veterans Farm
Northwest Straits Commission