Washington State recognized for innovation in serving incarcerated veterans.

Partnership focuses on successful release and reintegration into communities.

I am excited to share that for the third consecutive year, Washington State has been recognized as a Pillar of Excellence by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA). We received the award for an Innovative State Program for Incarcerated Veterans and was presented by VA Secretary Robert McDonald to the Washington State Department of Veterans Affairs (WDVA) and the Washington State Department of Corrections (DOC) for their collaborative work serving incarcerated veterans.

Approximately nine percent of the state’s prison population are veterans and of those 65% have honorable or general under honorable discharges, making them potentially eligible for federal VA benefits. Twelve percent of the incarcerated veteran population entering prison are receiving disability or pension benefits and need to file paperwork with the federal VA to adjust these benefits during incarceration.

WDVA and DOC have partnered since 2010 to help incarcerated veterans understand the importance of self-identifying their veteran status to prevent overpayment of federal VA benefits, and in some cases to allow for a portion of their disability compensation to go to their family during incarceration.

Some of the things we accomplished through this initiative are:

- Intake Video, Brochure and Poster - Shown to all offenders entering prison to highlight the importance of self-identifying veteran status. A DOC website is also available for family members with information and VA forms.
- Veteran Pods - Units within several Washington State prisons that house only veterans who have earned the ability to be there. The State has dedicated veteran units at Stafford Creek Corrections Center, Coyote Ridge Corrections Center, and the Walla Walla Penitentiary.
- Veterans Reentry Mission Planning and Community Support Team - Partnership with WestCare to assist veterans in creating a focused reentry plan to reduce recidivism and promote healthier communities.
- Service Dogs - Stafford Creek Corrections Center Veteran Unit allows veteran offenders to train service dogs for veterans. A partnership with Brigadoon Dogs has made this program possible and it has resulted in nine service trained dogs.
- Veteran Service Centers – Stafford Creek Corrections Center provides a monthly services clinic, coordinated by WDVA and DOC, which brings community providers to the prison to help veterans get connected with benefits prior to release.
- Community and Professional Partners - Organizations such as WestCare, Northwest Justice Project, Goodwill Industries, Community Veteran Centers, and the Centers for Excellence provide individualized assistance to veterans once they enter the community.

While much work has been done, WDVA and DOC continue pursuing changes that will ensure veterans, who are in receipt of federal VA disability compensation or pension, do not end up with large overpayments of benefits while they are incarcerated. Veterans who are in receipt of VA benefits should be in a far better position to succeed as they exit the justice system; however, when their benefits aren’t turned off during incarceration, veterans can be left with tens of thousands of dollars in overpaid benefits. This puts veterans at serious risk for homelessness at a time when their VA benefits should be there to help get them back on their feet. WDVA and DOC will continue working with our partners at the federal VA and our state and local justice systems to identify veterans and help file the required documents to suspend benefits during incarceration.

About the Pillars of Excellence:
The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs and the National Association of State Directors of Veterans Affairs worked together to establish the Pillars of Excellence Awards to identify and formally recognize outstanding state programs that support or exemplify VA’s strategic goals and priorities.

WDVA has previously received Pillars of Excellence for:

- 2015 - Innovative State Programs: Washington State Transition Model
- 2014 - Increasing Access to VA Benefits and Services: WDVA/HCA Benefits Enhancement Program
- 2014 - Eliminating Veteran Homelessness by the end of 2015: Ending Veterans Homelessness in Washington State Program

What is Yes Vets? Veteran Hiring Campaign created by HB 2040 during the 2015 Legislative Session. Washington State employers are recognized with a Yes Vets decal once they sign up & hire a veteran. Continued participation is recognized w/ annual year decals, displayed next to the Yes Vets decal.

How can employers participate? Sign up using the Yes Vets application form; Or contact your nearest Local Veterans Employment Representative.

Washington state is urging businesses to say “yes” to the state’s veterans when filling open positions. The YesVets pilot project will start in Klickitat, Kittitas, Skamania, and Yakima counties this month—and employers across the state may be able to participate by early summer.

Employers who hire a veteran will be recognized with a YesVets window decal they can display at their business to demonstrate support for America’s service members. They will be recognized each year with annual decals that can be displayed next to the YesVets decal.

Employers who wish to participate in the pilot project should visit http://www.yesvets.org to sign up.

Background Rep. Gina McCabe, R-Goldendale, developed the idea after she met with veterans early in the 2015 legislative session.

“I was surprised to learn these veterans were having difficulty finding jobs to support their families after leaving military service,” said McCabe, who owns several small businesses herself. “Serving in the military provides our veterans with a strong work ethic, a diverse skillset and the ability to work well in teams.”

McCabe sponsored House Bill 2040 to encourage businesses to hire veterans and to improve the veteran employment rate overall. The bill passed both legislative chambers and was signed into law by Governor Jay Inslee in late April.

Yes Vets initiative Washington’s Employment Security Department, Department of Veterans Affairs and Department of Commerce worked together to turn McCabe’s vision into a pilot project—and they are expanding.

“Hiring a veteran is good for our state’s businesses and good for our country,” said Inslee, who has made improving veteran employment rates a primary goal for his administration.

“We hope Yes Vets will increase the number of veterans who find great jobs, and also encourage returning veterans to consider starting their own veteran-owned business,” said Alfie Alvarado-Ramos, director of the state’s Department of Veteran Affairs.

“We have skilled local veterans employment representatives in every community, helping our state’s veterans find great jobs every day,” said Dale Peinecke, Commissioner of the state’s Employment Security Department, a partner in the WorkSource system. “Veterans who come into our WorkSource offices work with staff who are also veterans and who understand the skills and abilities they bring to the workforce.”

Military Spouses Serve Too and our WDVA Recruiters had an opportunity on February 9 & 10 to network and recruit military spouses at the Hiring Our Heroes Military Spouse Hiring Event on Joint Base Lewis-McChord (JBLM). Hundreds of military spouses met with the WDVA recruiter to find out about WDVA employment opportunities. WDVA is a Washington Employer of Choice and this event was just one of many VERG outreach opportunities.
